The studio provides a hands on learning environment with a strong focus on skills development and producing artistic works.

Your Tutor

On enrolment you will be allocated a primary tutor. The role of the primary tutor is to;

- recommend Studio Sessions for you to attend
- monitor your artistic and academic progress
- provide feedback to your questions on artistic or academic matters

Your Attendance and Studio Sessions

During your time at Sydney Art School you will attend 2 types of Studio Sessions:

- Skills Development Studio Sessions &
- Open Studio Sessions

International students will need to attend Studio Sessions for at least 20 hours per week during school terms.

"Tutored Studio Sessions" are groups where a tutor provides theoretical and practical instructions on specific technical skills such as drawing, painting or jewellery making. Full time students may attend up to 6 hours of Skills Development sessions per week.

"Open Studio Sessions" provide a collegiate environment where you can work alongside tutors and other students. You will use these sessions to

- use studio facilities to progress work on their tasks for assessment.
- share learnings with other students
- seek and give feedback on technical or creative concepts
- consolidate technical skills
- progress towards your assessment tasks.
- share learnings with other students

At least one tutor is present during any Open Studio Session. They will not be providing specific demonstrations but are working on their own art. This gives you the opportunity to observe how they work in a professional practice environment.
